THE SENIOR STORY

Once upon a time there was a freshman class that dared to venture into the unknown, namely, Saint Mark's. Thirty-two strong with plenty of spirit, they were soon stamped "the rowdiest class Saint Mark's had ever seen." They couldn't understand this undeserved title, for all they ever did was invent the swirley, participate in water and shave cream battles, rumble on the hill or in the school (which ever was more convenient), and have innocent little parties every weekend. Yes, many got in trouble that first year. They dared to hang out at the casino and the docks, and to be different by sticking people with forks at dinner. But, except for a few, they lasted, even Mr. Roehrl's class.

They returned in '74 as new sophomores, adding "Hilbs" to their ranks. This year however, they weren't so bad; they were worse. Weekend parties branched out despite warnings. But they were clever by now and each one knew the ropes. Smoking hangouts (including the roof) and how far one could go with teachers were all common knowledge to them. Please don't get the wrong impression though. Not every sophomore had to stay behind because of the Christmas Crusade. They also had their share of jocks. The class was represented in all four major sports, from baseball to tennis. Their four years here would show the class of '77 to be major contributors to the athletic program of Saint Mark's.

Now one may be inclined to believe it was all fun and games; far from it! They had their good times but there was also a lot of sweat, tears, and moments of quiet meditation, like the time Father Dusheck's teeth went flying during class.

Summer came and went leaving the new juniors even fewer in number. But two bright faces entered the horizon: "Eppy" and "Bozo", and just as fast, one left. They tried to tell "Bozo" not to throw those fire crackers, seeing he was already in trouble in various stolen objects. But "Epps" made up for the loss by his great contribution to the class: his car. Because of this a few members felt the need for an apartment. They found it and, unfortunately, so did the priests. Nothing changed, however and they still had guys setting their alarm clocks for 3:00 A.M. to catch one. Tradition prevailed for the third year in a row. Work charge soon followed in the lab and probation was on the way. Father Shea left at the end of the year, much to the sadness of all. Our trips to Girard, which always gave us much more than memories were cut.

All pain left "Mr. Mack" and the class as they returned in '76 as seniors. Here their leadership qualities were brought out to the fullest, one way or the other. They were allowed to smoke now, an important privilege, for there were only three out of seventeen who didn't. If the opposite sex had been important before, it was an obsession with them now, as each became a hustler in his own right. "Fahrah" prevailed and rooms changed into dens. But Saint Mark's will remember this class for a long time. They did things no other class dared or will ever dare again. They came in rowdy and left even rowdier.

The St. Vincent group engaged in hospital visitation, and the coffee shop as well.

For once, Project Share got a chance to teach.

The Boys Club gave the guys a chance — to win.

Visitation to St. Mary's Home was always rewarding though it may not have been easy.

St. Mark's provides C.C.D. teachers for eight Erie area parishes.

Workers in The Vineyard

The Erie County Annex provided another opportunity for old age visitation.

Some find a good deal of satisfaction by working at the Gertrude Barber Center.

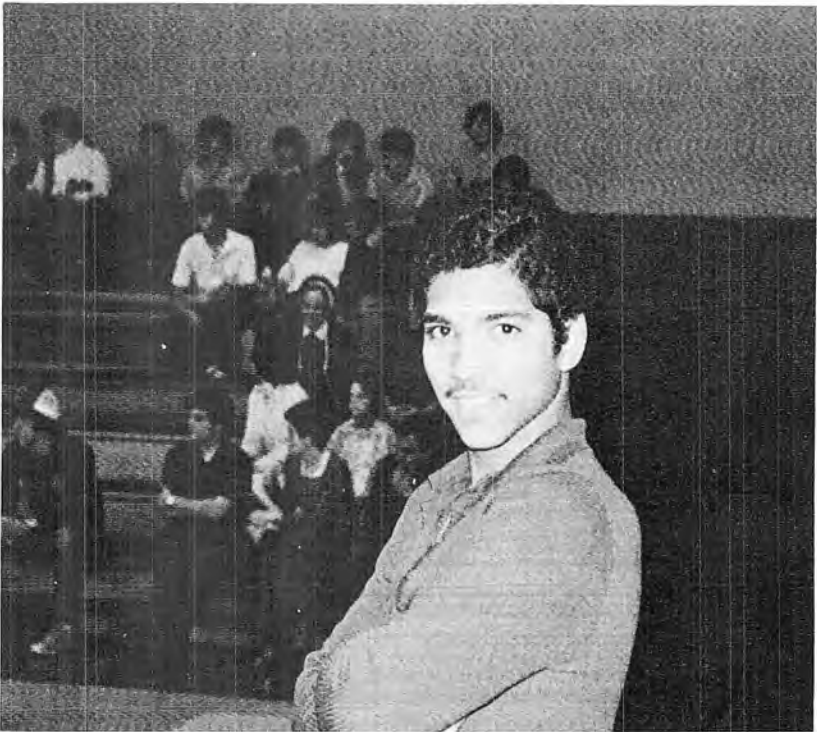

Pat Milloy, Pat Kirsch, and Chris Hamlett visited the elderly nuns at the Mercy Motherhouse.

Gary Mocariski, Don Spencer, Joe Chiocca, and Paul Rolen spent their Sunday evenings at Thomas Hall.

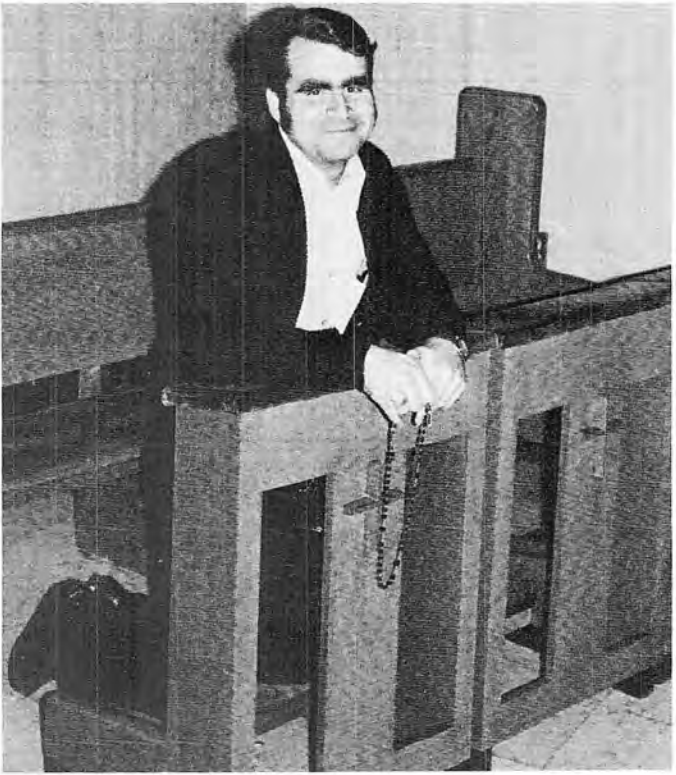

People in Our Lives

Our lives are filled with people of song who say, "Hey man, it's all right . . ."

"Come on, smile . . ."

"I pray for you."

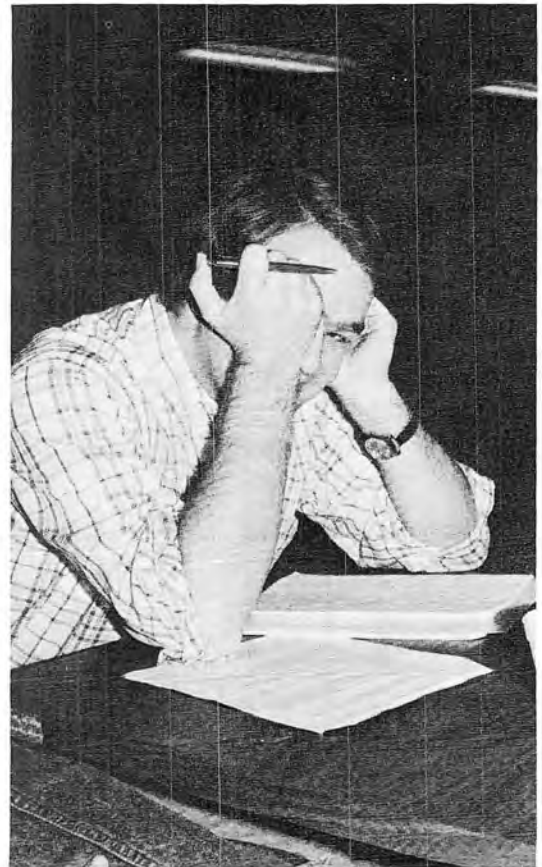

Now we have the chance,

the obligation . . .

the love to say,

"It's all right."

When we find Him at the center of all our activity, we just naturally gives thanks.
